WE NOMINATE

Helene Ritman Coan (Mrs. Walter), one of the Princeton Community's truly dedicated members, who for 14 years without thought of compensation has been shouldering the around-the-clock responsibilities that make it possible for the First Aid and Rescue Squad to serve Princeton as conscientiously and effectively as it does. Mrs. Coan, a resident of Princeton since 1935 and a 52-year old, native of Trenton, is the volunteer dispatcher to whom all of Princeton turns whenever it is necessary to alert an ambulance, or to summon the kind of skilled assistance which becomes mandatory in the face of sudden disaster.

Over the years, tragedies, accidents and other untoward events, have been part of Mrs. Coan's telephone-tuned life. She has, on the basis of the best available estimates, handled some 7,000 emergency calls—sometimes as many as 12-to-16 in a single day. One morning a fortnight ago, within the space of hours, she was the focal figure in this sequence of events: (1) a brutal shooting and an attempted suicide; (2) the fatal collapse of the driver of a funeral limousine; and (3) the birth in a hospital-bound ambulance of the first child to be delivered on the road by a member of the First Aid Squad.

The Princeton telephone-book notes that the First Aid Squad can be aroused by calling WALnut 4-0496 (the Coan residence at 22 Charlton Street) or, "if no answer," by dialing WALnut 4-4141 (Borough Police headquarters). This either-or possibility connotes the strain under which Mrs. Coan lives. If she chances to dash across the street for a cup of coffee with a neighbor, she must notify the police. She can't undertake a Nassau Street shopping expedition without "checking out." And since midway through World War II, her vacationtime out-of-Princeton has hardly approximated three weeks.

In the best American tradition the job sought the person. When the Squad was organized in 1939, and launched its ambulance operations in 1941 with a Princeton-wide subscription, it was Mrs. Coan's feeling that "I wouldn't have the dispatcher's job for anything in the world." Suddenly the position was open. It was wartime and Mrs. Coan agreed to help on a short-range basis—"until you can find some one else." That was in the summer of 1944! In the late summer of 1958 she continues to take all calls and to maintain 24-hour contacts with the volunteer Squad members.

Mrs. Coan, in telephonic touch with all aspects of Princeton Life, has found that in the flow of human affairs there is a grim foreboding in "the lull before the storm." Quiet, she points out, is followed by wild periods during which she and her associates are pressed to the limit in living up to their understandable pride "in always getting the ambulance there on time." When occupied with neither her household routine, nor First Aid responsibilities, Mrs. Coan cares for a full-blown menagerie—now including four dogs, two cats, three birds and two colonies of fish—and even finds time to help neighborhood children nurse injured pets.

For grasping the full meaning of the ideals connoted by the Golden Rule; for distinguished and unsung service with the organization that has endowed Princeton with a needed sense of security in moments of stress; she is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

"A GROWING INTEREST"

Mayor Lauds Princetonians. In his weekly report to the press
this week, Borough Mayor Raymond F. Male notes that, ever since he has urged citizens to write, phone or visit him with questions or comments about local problems, "there has been a growing stream of suggestions on a variety of subjects." The mayor concludes that "all this seems to point to a growing interest in local government."

By way of emphasizing his observation, Mr. Male cites just a few of the "batch of useful ideas" which came his way this past week. Included are a series of articles on town problems clipped from "The Christian Science Monitor," a request that meters in the new Witherspoon Street parking lot be placed in the center of parking spaces to eliminate the "guesswork" concerning which meter belongs to what spot, another recommendation for a possible off-street parking yard and several thoughts regarding trash removal.

The mayor reports his weekly
"Tell it to the Mayor!" sessions have produced an astounding number of visitors to his office and an appropriate total of constructive ideas. "In last week's August heat and humidity," he comments, stressing that good turnouts continue even in the summer months, "some visitors brought a rather cooling thought—a suggestion on snow removal!"

END OF AN "ERA"

Father Halton Departing. The militant, outspoken priest who has figured so conspicuously in the Nation's press—the Rev. Hugh Halton—will not be on hand through another academic year.
Father Halton, since 1952 the Roman Catholic chaplain assigned to nonsectarian Princeton University, is being transferred from the directorship of the Aquinas Foundation.

Through the official newspaper of the Trenton Diocese, "The Monitor," it was reported this

LEAVING TOWN: The Rev.
Hugh Halton, who criticized the teachings of various Princeton professors for six years and the student-sponsored appearance in 1956 of Alger Hiss, will go to Oxford for further study this fall. See details in This Is Princeton.

past week that the 45-year-old priest will return to Oxford University to continue his research and studies there. Father Halton already has Oxford's doctor of civil law degree, the first Catholic priest in four centuries to win same, as well as a doctor of philosophy degree.

The University—Halton controversy hit the headlines last September, when then-new President Goheen announced that "the university has withdrawn its recognition of Father Halton. The courtesies and privileges which have been extended to him, as they are to all deaconship chaplains, have been terminated.
He is no longer entitled to claim he has any official standing in Princeton University."

Dr. Goheen's action, which prompted a seemingly endless stream of vocal attacks from off-campus, actually resulted from strained relations between Father Halton and the university that dated back several years.

"Under claims of advancing the pursuit of truth," Dr. Goheen stated last fall, "he has resorted to irresponsible attacks upon the intellectual integrity of faculty members. The nature and manner of his charges can only be recognized as designed to foment a highly emotional form of controversy and to provoke hostility and disrespect where friendship and respect had long existed."

Supported by Bishop, Father Halton's immediate reaction to Dr. Goheen's move, based on a decision made by the university's board of trustees, was a comment to the effect that his ouster represented "bigotry or at best a confused sentimentality." Bishop George W. Ahr of the Diocese of Trenton supported the priest's stand at the time, permitting him to remain in Princeton "for the defense of the faith," and a letter left strongly about Father Halton's side of the feud after the announcement of his transfer.

It shall be sorry indeed to lose the services of this brilliant and dedicated priest," Bishop Ahr commented. "His sole purpose has been to safeguard, in difficult circumstances, the faith and needs of the students committed to his care, and he has carried out his responsibility with extraordinary competence and great courage."

Notice of Father Halton's transfer was contained in a letter from Rev. William D. Marrio, provincial of the Dominican Fathers,
of which order the Princeton priest is a member. No Informa-

IMPACT OF VIDEO

By the 100's. If past experience proves to be any kind of valid criterion, an attractive nook of Princeton—No. 136, Randall Road, in the Princeton Manor Development—will undoubtedly be a lodestone for any number of Princeton visitors over the coming weekend.

This particular model home, for which the Princeton Manor Construction Company, 10 Nassau Street, is the authorized builder in Central New Jersey, is currently being featured on the weekly NBC-TV Network program, "The Price Is Right," starring Bill Cullen on Thursday evenings at 10:00.

In accordance with the terms of "The Price Is Right," any participant (viewer or non-viewer) must guess the total price of the new home, together with a half-dozen valuable other prizes. The contest-rules state: "The person who guesses closest to the correct total price of the Story-Book Home, plus the other prizes (without over-pricing), will win them all. House built for winner anywhere in the United States!" This past Saturday and Sunday some 500 persons flooded into Princeton, forcing one Nassau Street enterprise to scotch-tape in its window—after countless interruptions—a map and detailed directions as to how to reach Randall Road.

PRINCETON IN GENEVA

"Thermonukes Sought." The dateline in "The New York Times" read Geneva, Switzerland, but it could just as well have been Princeton, N.J.—if U.S. and local authorities had not been so archly concerned with adhering to the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission's pronouncement, "Not for release prior to Monday, September 1st."

From Geneva, where on September 1st scientists of 61 nations (including a half-dozen or more Princetonians) will open the Second International Atoms for Peace Conference, came word that the U.S. will unveil thermonuclear research devices which may achieve a almost limitless source of power by containing and harnessing the nuclear burning of hydrogen at temperatures in the order of 100,000,000 degrees, temperatures heretofore achieved in the explosion of atomic bombs.

Sparked by Spitzer's ideas, which, in the broad, call for confining deuterium gas (a heavy form of hydrogen, found in enormous quantities in the oceans of the world) within the confines of an encircling magnetic field, Project Matterhorn has carried forward the development of Stellarator C—a name combining star and the conventional generator and suggesting a hypothetical thermonuclear star.

At Geneva, for the first time, as scientists throughout the world work for the production of subatomic particles known as "thermonukes," the Stellarator C concept will be displayed in a form understandable to laymen.

The Princeton-conceived Stellarator machines have not yet produced any of the temperatures comparable to devices brought into being at other research centers in the United States. However, with the conception of an endless tube, at first shaped like a pretzel but more recently like a Kentucky race-track, it is considered likely that Spitzer and his staff are "on the inside track."

A U. S. commission brochure (prepared for the Geneva exhibition next month but unavailable locally for "security reasons") states that when the Stellarator C is completed in 1960, "it is expected to be capable of producing abundant thermonuclear fusion reactions."

STAR OF "STELLARATOR": Lyman Spitzer Jr., brilliant astrophysicist, was largely responsible for the design and construction of the largest thermonuclear research device now being built in the U.S. It will be the stellar attraction at the September Geneva Conference. may have achieved the highest temperatures ever produced on earth in man's quest to harness the nuclear burning of hydrogen at temperatures comparable to the sun itself.

An outstanding part of the U.S. Geneva exhibit, described by one correspondent as having the "outward appearance of a torture chamber in a grade B movie," has been developed here at University's James Forrestal Research Center where Project Matterhorn for the past seven years has been wrestling with the tremendous problem of harnessing the vast power of the H-bomb for peacetime uses.

It was in 1951 that 41-year old Lyman Spitzer Jr., Ohio-born and Yale and Princeton-trained, approached the Atomic Energy Commission with an idea for pro-

Science In Princeton

The Princeton Community, once called "The Athens of America" by Dr. Harold W. Dodds, President Emeritus of the University, has been described in glowing terms by any number of authors and publications ranging from the late F. Scott Fitzgerald to a recent issue of "Fortune Magazine," in which Princeton is depicted as "one of the most densely concentrated centers of theoretical and applied research in the U.S."

In documentation of the latter description, which has been substantiated by a survey showing that no less than 50 research establishments are located within a 7-mile radius of Nassau Hall, TOWN TOPICS this week is inaugurating a new column, "Science in Princeton."

This innovation (see page 16) will appear periodically and as is the case this week, will supplement the kind of "scientific coverage" which is regularly featured in Topics of the Town.

News Of The THEATRES

(A review of Senn O'Casey's "Purple Dust," the University Players' current presentation, appears on page 10.)

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS

For Finale, Shakespeare. As an appropriate final production for their 30th anniversary season, the University Players will offer one of Shakespeare's earlier comedies, "Two Gentlemen of Verona," for a one-week run starting next Tuesday. The opening curtain will go up at 8:30 p.m., as it is scheduled to go up every night through Saturday at Murray Theatre.

A comedy based on love and mistaken identity, "Two Gentlemen" has had two successful productions recently, one in Central Park last year and another at Phoenix Theatre by the Stratford Festival Players. Reviewers of the play's last production called it "beguiling fun," "a miracle of whimsical playing," "gay and charming."

The Herald-Tribune's Walter Kerr summed it up by saying, "The play contains all the conventions: plot complications in which women change their shapes and men their minds; the character of Mario Siletti, one of the Players' veterans, will direct the production of "Two Gentlemen." Tickets for all performances in air-conditioned Murray have been placed on sale at the air-conditioned theatre.

Ellen Kerney, chairman of the Players' benefit committee, announced this week that the Players will offer a benefit performance of "Two Gentlemen" on opening night, next Tuesday.

She pointed out that the Players are a non-profit organization which makes an effort each summer to bring plays of "lasting significance to the Princeton community." In order to continue this work, it is necessary for the group to raise enough money to cover the expenses of the current season. Thus, people interested in the Players are invited to phone the box office (WA 4-3430) of Murray for benefit (or regular) reservations.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Rock-A-Bye Baby (August 20-23) threatens to win no special awards or extra amount of reviewers' stars, though it is certain to please all Jerry Lewis fans, who may or may not be many in number hereabouts. Written especially for Jerry, producer as well as star of this particular outing, the VistaVision-Technicolor picture involves an inept, shy, small-town bachelor and TV repairman who for years has been in love with a small-town girl (Marilyn Maxwell). Aided by Baccaloni and Hans Conried, Jerry romps through a handful of comedy routines, some bordering on the slapstick, some of them showing subtle variety and still others a bit too familiar.

A Certain Smile (August 21-26) is bound to appeal to a fair share of the ladies in the Princeton audience, since it includes—along with the now-customary CinemaScope and De Luxe Color—such ingredients as a dazzling wardrobe for Joan Fontaine, a title song featuring Johnny Mathis, luxurious Paris apartments and the ever-romantic Riviera. The men, on the other hand, may be interested in the slight but sexy plot, which is typically Francisc Sagan in that its approach to sex topped by an adulterous affair, is deliberately casual and offhand. It goes like this: Comely Christine Carere, a law student in love with fellow student Bransford Dillman, is introduced to Dillman's uncle, played by Rossano Brazzi, who is married to Miss Fontaine but is also a philanthropist and therefore not above asking Miss Carere to spend a week with him on the Riviera. All ends well, though there's dangerous ground to be covered first.

MIXED-UP LOVE AFFAIR: French newcomer Christine Carere and Rossano Brazzi portray confused playmates in "A Certain Smile," next offering (starts Sunday) at the Playhouse. Their "affair" commences even though Miss Carere like's Brazzi's wife (Joan Fontaine) and already is engaged to his nephew (Bransford Dillman).

The Light in the Forest (August 27-30) shines brightly for the kiddies, but may afford adults a rather dim view of life in Colonial Pennsylvania (1784). Concocted by Walt Disney's unerring forces, this strictly juvenile drama concerns a white boy who is adopted

The Bridge on the River Kwai (starts Friday) needs no introduction inasmuch as it was the most-discussed motion picture of 1957, winning Academy Awards for best movie of the year, best actor (Alec Guinness) of the year, best director (David Lean) of the year and garnering many other prizes.

Filmed in the hot, humid jungles of Ceylon, "Bridge" is a spectacular, inspiring and completely absorbing story of British soldiers in a Malayan prison who defeat conflicts presented by the Japanese military code and build a huge wooden bridge for their captors.

It is a long film (181 minutes),
but it is also so tense and thrill-

In CinemaScope and Technicolor,
"Bridge" is splendidly filmed and acted by Guinness, plus William

IT'S NEW To Us

LADIES' DAY

At The English Shop. The ladies, who have been tucked off in a corner because of space problems at 34 Nassau Street, as of next month will have a full floor of their own at The English Shop.

All women's sportswear has been moved to a delightfully remodeled basement, reached by a swooping staircase, quite in the grand manner. One thousand additional square feet of space space, girls. Tuck that in the pocket of your Handmacher.

The new lower level is a mirrored wall flanking the staircase, several other mirrors hanging here and there and completely encircling each column. The finish is light Korina wood and white brick, splashed with chaux-se, and gold drapes, a striped umbrella of terra-cotta and sand and some blinds in beige slats.

Colored cylinder shades cover the light fixtures that hang down over a group of plants. There's a little Parisian (in the English Shop?) curt in black metal to hold special display items.

Well, now. What do you buy in all this splendor?

There is the complete line of Evan Picone, to begin with, and fall suits from the lemons and needles of Handmacher. These are hand-woven Shetland classics, notched lapels, three buttons, impeccable suits cut to Princeton's taste.

The coat of the year at The English Shop is the Rodox from England. It's classic in cut, too, with patch flap pockets and a choice of raglan or set-in sleeve. We saw it in the hand-to-mouth check, a good big check. You may have it in a much smaller check, if you prefer; in fact, there are many fabric choices. The price: $30 and up.

To add spice to these staples, The English Shop has accessories such as belts, in silk or leather, and smaller items of tailored jewelry, a new line for this shop.

WHAT'S AFOOT?

Late Vacation Or Autumn. Last minute vacationers or people settling down for autumn—the present situation at Brophy's Shoe Store is agreeable for both. Here at Palmer Square the late August sailor will find boating shoes whose rubber soles and lined canvas tops will weather any weather. Topsiders with rubber soles and canvas tops are a bit more ship-shod; tiny beads trim the borders of the red, sand or white slip-on shoe, elasticized to stay on ($8.95).

The cushion crepe-soled loafer is light as an August breeze. It's a Mosher moccasin, $8.95 in brown. Also comes in mahogany with a leather sole. These are shoes for the ladies, or had you guessed? Sandler of Boston makes the leather-soled one.

For men, Brophy's now carries a line of six or seven models from the lasts of Johnson and Murphy. These shoes, from $23.95 to $30, are the latest scions in one of the oldest lines of men's shoes.

Lots of styles to choose from at Brophy's: plain toe, or wing-tip cordovan; mahogany grain leather (plain toe); leather-lined oxford; a dressy black calfskin slip-on that can be worn from cocktail time right through the evening.

A WOMAN'S NEEDS
And A Woman's World. Clayton's, on Palmer Square, winds up the

Vogue's Here

In the past, Vogue patterns have been available at Clayton's on Palmer Square only on special order.

Now the store has Vogue patterns in stock and you may pick one up as easily as you'd buy a spool of thread. The extra price Couturier patterns must still be ordered, but all the rest of the Vogue line is yours.

There are some splendid dark cottons to cut in the Vogue, including Fruit of the Loom, Pampered Cottons and some darks by Vogue stripes. Most of the new designs are dark paisleys, executed with a dark motif, an all-over swirl design. The provincial print appears with regularity and will probably be especially appealing to mothers who have school clothes to sew.

There is also a border print with a dark olive band at the bottom below a geometric print of olive and red. Two-inch feathers lighter in color, red cotton that's certainly destined to switch down the aisle to teacher's desk.

summer and starts up the fall with dozens of everything a woman needs to bridge the seasons, either for herself or her house.

Been to New England? Remember it this winter with slick cork-backed place mats just like the ones of Florence and New York that you bought a few months ago. These are keyed to the seasons: Gloucester in the summer, a New England village in autumn, Beacon Hill in the spring, and a covered bridge in winter.

While you're refurbishing your house for the winter, consider your shower. Need a new curtain? Clayton's has the new Kleenex, made of fabric and plastic just like a pair of baby pants. It's a satin stripe in pink, aqua, green, white or yellow. A matching tailored curtain completes the set: $12.95. (Shower curtain alone, $6.95).

To be really hoop-la this fall you must, of course, have a headach band. How have you lived so long without one? Clayton's has them in black, navy or red grosgrain or velvet for $1.95. For a hat that isn't a hat, buy a helmet made of veiling and decorated with small black velvet bows, small black velvet dots, or even two small wings of white feathers that look rather like cars. We liked one with a broad black velvet bow that sits straight on top of the head. They are $2.95 to $6.95 and eminently useful for anybody who wants to look charming.

The Bernhard Altmann collection of cashmires has made its annual visit to Clayton's sweater bar. Many of the cashmires feature a kind of inter-knit called poutelle that looks, in one model, like a sunburst. It's done very discreetly, of course, in white on pale grey, ice blue or natural. Another similar sweater has a spray knit into the solid color.

Most all the new sweaters are cut straight, wide and straight, with a rather broad pointed collar around a slightly deeper V-neck than last year's V-neck. One example is a splendidly red cashmere, and there's a lemon yellow one with the suggestion of a cable stitch at each side of the front.

Altmann has something beider cashmere for 1958. It's a blend of lambs' wool and fur that makes a soft sweater at a comfortable price: $14.95. We saw a magnificent cornflower blue with three-quarter sleeve collar and an unobtrusive design running parallel to the buttons.

There are dyed-to-match flannel skirts from B.A., also, most of them cut straight with a kick pleat, but at least one with two pleats and a flare. The skirts are $10.55, a come-down from previous prices.

Incidentally, turnabout must be fair play, for it was just three decades ago—in the fall of 1923—that Princeton turned to Mount Holyoke and "called" the first Dean of the University Chapel, Robert Russell Wicks, who retired from his Princeton post in 1947. At the time Dean Wicks came to Princeton, the University Chapel was brand-new and was referred to by "The Daily Princetonian" as the University's $2,000,000 "Moley Dick, The Great White Whale."

Franklin Park Group Says. A cooperative swimming club providing for a 2,800 square foot swimming pool, a children's wading pool, bath-houses, sanitary facilities, and a play-area has been organized in Franklin Park with memberships open to residents of Princeton, Franklin Park, and New Brunswick. Several sites near Kendall Park have been deemed suitable for the pool, but bids from contractors will not be accepted until the membership is filled.

Only 200 family and a limited number of individual memberships are available. Each lifetime family membership will cost $290 with yearly dues coming in approximately $40. The club will be a cooperative enterprise with each family owning a share.

A kickoff rally in order to answer the questions of potential members has been set for August 26 at 8:30 p.m., in the Vries Auditorium, Route 27. The board of trustees for the non-

"DINK" SCINTILLATES
O'Casey Will Prevail. The University Players have struck gold again with Sean O'Casey's "Purple Dust," a sharp portrayal of the conflict between the Gaelic and Anglo-Saxon temperaments.

Combining the best elements of social satire, romantic comedy and slapstick humor, the play delineates the trials and tribulations of two sturdy Englishmen and their Irish mistresses who seek to escape from the money mania of London and the ivied walls of Oxford to the "simple life" in a crumbling Tudor mansion near Dublin.

The workmen in charge of restoring the house to some semblance of its former grandeur give the exiles their company by scoffing at their standards and referring to the infinitely superior qualities of the Irish in contrast to the English pretensions.

THANK YOU

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to the many friends whose steady patronage was responsible for the success of O'Casey's Liquor Store during the years we were in business in Princeton.

Our successor, Mr. Stephen Eory, is a reputable young man and we hope he will enjoy the same measure of success in his operation of the store, which will now be known as "Versity Liquors."

THE O'KANE FAMILY

occupation with Empire and efficiency.

As the eminently British protagonist, Cyril Porges, Mario Siletti gives full vent to the comic potentialities of the self-made millionaire who only regrets he has settled a substantial sum for life on Southern, his mistress, so that she is independent of his generosity.

Playing the creaking graybeard who longs for a way of life in touch with nature to restore his youth, Siletti projects his resentment of the inefficient irresponsible Irish people with vigor and humorily asks that his precious quailcote chest be utilized as an Ark to float him away from Erin in the storm that ends the play.

Charles Schultz follows his role in "Miscellaneous" with as great success as Basil Stoke, the philosophical expert who dares all in the country wilds only to be overcome with ignominy by an Irish horse and the Irish workmen who win his respect. In the young mistress, Avril, Sandra Adams takes this part with great verve in denouncing her anemic lover in favor of O'Killigan, ably persuaded by Ralph Williams, who carries her to join him in the "house on the hill." Williams effectively underplays his caustic comments on subjects ranging from the merits of Wordsworth to the demerits of resurrecting the past and handles the romantic situation with sophistication and ease.

Kathy Kelly does a superb job as Southern, more deeply immersed in the English way of life than Avril, who finally breaks away to join Philip O'Dempsey, a man of many dreams and visions of Ireland's past and sure in his knowledge that England will one day fall against the onslaught of Gaelic courage and arms. But Butler gives his portrayal of the lecherous-lunatic-mystic a dimension of credibility as well as comedy and wins his girl with cheers from all sides.

As the servants who make vain efforts to adjust to the new way of life selected by their masters, William Pierce and Emily Ruhberg gained many laughs from the first-night audience. Miss Ruhberg in particular merits special praise for her deadpan portrayal of the maid who goes to pieces at the onslaught of a cow in the hall and endures the vicissitudes of a molly house with stoic witlessness.

Michael Reilly and James Carruthers expand eloquently on the foibles and stupidity of the new tenants in their roles of workmen who think of nothing but knocking down part of the house to push a piece of furniture into the living room. The play derives its humor in large part from their comic portrayals of the simple folk who can gull the big-city people whenever they feel like it. In brief scenes, Loren Zissman and Paul Lincoln Smith as the postmaster and the circular figure who tells of the forthcoming flood, make the improbable comic touches

Phillip Minor has done a superb job of staging and directing and the play moves along smoothly under his sure touch. The audience caught brief glimpses of his yellow beard when he peered down through the ceiling in his role of the workman in charge of placing the light to the Englishman's satisfaction. Jerry Rainbourn creates the seedy, tumble-down Tudor manor with a magnificent set and the lighting and sound effects departments gain their share of praise for offstage barnyard noises and a realistic thunderstorm with crackling lightning.

O'Casey's comedy includes many moods and, thanks to an able cast, the atmosphere changes believably from one to another. The Players deserve another star in their bright constellation.

PRECEDENT SET: Edward A. WHAT GOES ON AROUND HERE

The Enclirelog Farms. Princeton residents have become so accustomed to thinking of their community in terms of research, education and small industrial plants that they do not give much thought to the extensive farming that goes on all around the town.

Princeton, actually, is a paradox. It stands in the center of a prosperous farm area but it is not a farm center. It marks, in fact, a kind of boundary between the potatoes, vegetables and chickens to the south, and the dairy cattle and chickens to the north.

(This is a division based largely on the soil. There is better land south of Princeton, generally speaking, than north, but all of it is valuable: the average New Jersey farm is worth $521.48 per acre, against a national average of $100.30.)

Facing Route One are the 100 acres of the Mount Orchards, now owned and operated by Russell and Bernard Mount. These apple trees have been in the Mount family for 50 years and their fruit is shipped from the farm to New York, Philadelphia, Europe, South America, the Caribbean and to Army and Navy posts.

Another piece of the Mount Farm is on Route 69, outside Pennington. These 115 acres are higher than the ones near Princeton and so less subject to frost.

The Mounts do all their own grading, by machine, and their modern warehouses can store 50,000 bushels of the Macintosh, Red Wonder and Rome Beauties and Delicious grown in the Princeton and Pennington orchards.

The Spud. Most of the area south of Princeton, in West Windsor Township, is devoted to potatoes, vegetables and wheat. West Windsor leads the county in the production of these crops, and anyone traveling through the Township might think that all the potatoes in the world are grown there. The bin spills over into Middlesex County which grows more potatoes than any county in all of New Jersey.

Curiously enough, these potatoes are perhaps even more important to the southern states than they are to New Jersey. Trucks coming from the south fill up with Jersey potatoes as a back haul load and probably more potatoes go south than stay at home.

Vegetables from these farms around Plainsboro, Dutch Neck, Edinburg, Cranbury and Hightstown go to the big distribution centers in Scranton, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York or to the canneries of Hightstown and Camden.

(When a super-market advertises "local produce" it means produce from anywhere in New Jersey. A head of lettuce goes from an Edinburg farm to Philadelphia center to Princeton market.)

All These Cows. The Walker-Gordon Dairies are probably the best known of any local farms. This giant industrial farm off Route One in Plainsboro is the

THE APPLES OF THEIR EYES: The Brothers Mount, Bernard (left) and Russell are the owners and operators of the famed Mount Orchards that ship apples to points north, south and west. Russell, incidentally, is chairman of the West Windsor Township Committee. See Topics of the Town for more on "The Enclirelog Farms".

Garden Stats?

Boastful Chambers of Commerce have been referring to New Jersey as "The Garden State" for decades. (It has a pretty sound, even though it means "truck garden.") Actually, agricultural production in the state has shifted so in the last few years that New Jersey is now more of a chicken state than a garden state.

Last year, eggs and poultry combined brought farmers an income of $118,500,000—more than any other farm product. Milk was second with $65,000,000 and vegetables third with $53,000,000.

The state ranks fourth in the nation in cash receipts per farm ($14,577) although the average farm is only 70 acres. Arizona, California and Delaware, the states whose farm incomes exceed New Jersey's have mammoth farms ranging from an average acreage of 150 to 4,000, so New Jersey's farmers have a justifiable pride in their skill.

world's largest certified milk farm, producing milk used largely in special diets because of its low bacterial content (under 100 after pasteurization) and its high butterfat content (average 4 per cent).

Walker-Gordon is a decentralized farm operation, divided roughly into two sections: feed units and cow units. Thirteen farmers in the Plainsboro area supply the dairy with 1400 of its 1650 cows. The remaining 250 are owned directly by Walker-Gordon.

These farmers, some of whom own 200 cows, others who have only 50 or so, leave their stock with Walker-Gordon during the entire 18-month milking period. During the two-month dry period, the farmers either keep their cows themselves or board them out at various farms around the countryside.

Some of these farms are known as "cow maternity wards" because the cows are kept there only during the last two months before calving, returning to the treadmill of the Walker-Gordon Rotolactor five days after the calf is born and the cow is "fresh."

Feed for Walker-Gordon cattle comes from three large feed units: the Morris and Wallington unit, where crops are grown along Washington Road and Route One on land rented from Princeton University; and two farms in Plainsboro, belonging to the Brandon Brothers and Welnitz and Son.

Of Bugs and Weeds. Another Plainsboro industrial farm, slightly different in character, is the new Agriculture Experiment Center belonging to American Cyanamid. The chemical concern has 430 acres on the Clarksville Groves Mill Road, 100 of them given over to agronomic experiments.

Here chemists and agronomists have developed Thimet, the first commercial soil systemic insecticide: apply it to the soil before planting and the young plants themselves will kill off any insect that tries to feed on them.

The current problem is to work for "zero toxicity at time of harvest," or "can we time things so that the plant will kill off insects right up to the moment of harvest then become harmless for humans to eat?"

The next problem in line at the Cyanamid farm is to develop a weed killer that will work on the same principle, and experiments along this line are currently being done on sweet corn.

Hogs, turkey, cattle and the usual run of farm animals provide raw material for experiments in the effect on animals of tranquilizers, enzymes and anti-biotics used to boost the quantity and quality of meat.

The Center's scientists are also experimenting with chemicals which, administered to an animal internally, will control the grubs in cattle hides.

North of Princeton. Beginning with a farm that is almost in town—Coventry Farm—the country north of Princeton is largely devoted to raising dairy cattle.

Woodenars, the A. W. Hoher farm out The Great Road near Elwynburg, is perhaps the largest. About 160 prize Guernseys are sustained by its 310 acres.

These are show cattle, prize-winners year after year at national and international exhibitions. Milk from the herd goes to a dairy in Illinois, but the Hoher Guernseys are better known as valuable breeding cattle. Three years ago, 150 head were sold for $120,800 and individual cows from this stock are probably worth even more today.

The George Gallup farm, also on The Great Road, has 45 Guernsey milk cows and 35 young stock on its 500 acres. It's a small herd for the size of the farm and Bernard Hall, Mr. Gallup's partner, says it would be larger if he could find enough men to take care of it.

Like other dairy farms, the Gallup farm grows its own corn, barley, oats and wheat for feed. Gallup milk goes north to Plainfield dairies to be bottled and sold.

Still a show-place despite the reduction of its Guernsey herd to

N.J. Political Scene

Results of the latest statewide "trial heat" of voter sentiment by the NEW JERSEY POLL show Republican and Democratic candidates for the House of Representatives running exactly the same.

Here's how the vote went when trained pollsters put this question to a representative cross-section of 1,000 New Jersey adult citizens:

"If the elections for Congress were being held today, which party would you like to see win in your own Congressional District: the Republican or the Democratic Party?"

Republican Party Candidates	45%
Democratic Party Candidates	45
Undecided	10

This sampling of the statewide vote for congressmen parallels the tally recorded a week ago for the senatorial race between Congresswoman Robert W. Keen (G.O.P.) and former Congressman Harrison A. Williams. Keen and Williams both polled 46%, with 8% replying "undecided."

40 head, Coventry Farm prides itself on pure-bred, curried, brushed show-cows, worth $10,000 to $30,000.

Most Coventry milk is sold raw to individual customers, provided they come to the farm and pick it up. The milk is cooled, separated and bottled right on the farm, and any excess goes to a commercial dairy. Coventry consistently receives top rating from the state for its cleanliness, and its animals are disease free, although they are never incalculable.

Farther north and east of Princeton, the cow really comes into her own: Hopewell Township has more acres devoted to cattle than any Township in Mercer County.

On the other side of Princeton, dairy farmer Harry Carre of Quaker Road, was recently given a service award by the New Jersey State Department of Agriculture for his work as dairyman. He has had a producing dairy farm since 1902.

The area around Princeton, as a whole, does not reflect the state's big chicken-and-egg picture, although most farms have a few chickens. The George R. Parker farm on Schalks Crossing Road, Plainsboro, and the Maple Farm Company on the Skillman-Belle Mead road are probably the largest in a section that prefers to concentrate on cattle and crops.

THE BIRDS AND THE BEES
Adult school. Expands. Increased enrollment and demands for an expanded curriculum have literally forced the Princeton Adult School to offer a fall term in addition to its regular winter term for the first time in its 17-year history. Popular courses in past years such as "Birds of Princeton" and "Golf" will still be offered, however.

The school will open Thursday, October 2, and will continue for ten consecutive Thursdays. Its planning committee feels the extra session will enable participants to take more courses or to delve more deeply, and at greater length, into one or two subjects.

Charles H. Rogers, curator of the Princeton Museum of Zoology, will present a series of lectures and direct two field trips as part of the "Birds of Princeton" course. John G. Brown, the assistant professional at the Springleade Golf Club, will again give his popular class in golf.

BRUNSWICK TO PICNIC
GOP Is Host. Warren C. Parmeter, Republican candidate for the South Brunswick township committee, has issued an open invitation to all township residents to attend the second annual Republican Club picnic which will be held at Reichler Park, Monmouth Junction Saturday, August 23 at 2. As chairman of the picnic committee, he emphasized that the event would be a " bipartisan" one and announced the formation of a special welcoming committee to introduce Kendall Park residents to other township residents.

Tickets are priced at $1 for adults with children under 12 and members of the Little League baseball teams admitted free. Food, beer and soft drinks will be served without charge. Those interested should call Andre Gruver, DA 9-6537 or Sam Siegel, DA 9-2943.

THREE DIFFERENT THOUGHTS IN AS MANY MINUTES: H. W. Van Horn, Arthur Van Horn and Guy Watlington (left to right) ponder the future of the Witherpoon "Y" and offer a variety of ideas for the information of TOWN TOPICS' Inquiring Reporter (kneeling in foreground). The perplexed frowns of the interviewees are indicative of the wide range of opinion prompted by the Question of the Week. (TOWN TOPICS Photo by Alan W. Richards)

Question of the Week

Question: How do you feel the "Princeton Community House," for many years the headquarters for the Princeton Branch of the YMCA, could best be used to serve Princeton? (Suggested by discussion at the stated August Meeting of Mayor and Council.)

Location: Witherpoon YMCA (corner of Witherpoon and Green Streets) and around the Borough's Central Business District.

School: A non-sectarian community center for all age groups with adult supervision for the younger set is badly needed. The Scouts are one of the groups I would have in mind for a definite place in such a center. There also seems to be a need for something constructive to keep idle teen-agers from simply hanging around. Perhaps this problem could be solved by a center containing a teen-age employment bureau where constructive skills could be taught.

H. W. Van Horn, 32 Park Place, Electrician: I think it would be a marvelous place for the ambulance units. At present the ambulances are down in one of the firehouses. It would be an excellent place for the unit to meet, to practice first aid exercises and to establish an extensive training program.

Arthur Van Horn, 13 Madison Street, Borough Fire Policeman: I would suggest a general meeting center which would take the pressure off Borough Hall and the fire houses. There are an awful lot of outlots around here that rent the fire houses for meetings and sometimes find it difficult to find places for meetings.

Guy Watlington, Princeton Junction, Borden Milkman: With the new parking places across the street I think definite consideration should again be given to a new public library for the Borough. It would be a large enough facility also to house a teen-age program of dances and parties and a little leagues' conference room.

Miss Carol Collings, Mountain Avenue, Salesgirl at Thakons': There is no place around town for kids out of high school to meet in or to hold social activities. I would like to see the building used as a recreation center for post-teen-agers.

George Weibush, Trenton, Night Manager, Princeton Western Union: Why don't they make a contemporary arts building out of it? They have enough talent here to hold individual and group music recitals, art shows, photographic exhibitions, and similar under takings for the benefit of non-profit organizations. It could also be used for civic meetings of all kinds.

Mrs. Eleanor Pirone, 177 River Street, housewife: I think it could be used as a community center for just about everything. The Borough could rent it as a hall for teenage activities, scouting programs, wedding receptions, parties or for any deserving organization that is sponsoring a major event.

F. D. Chapman, Metuchen, Storekeeper at the Foodmart, 20 Witherpoon: Something should be done that will give the Borough an income. The community house could be converted into low-level rental apartments for

In Princeton's Service?

Mayor and Council, with the fast-approaching completion of the new Avalon Place YM-YW, are confronted with the responsibility of plotting the future of the "Princeton Community House" (102 Witherpoon Street), which will be "abandoned" by the YMCA when it moves within the next few weeks to more spacious quarters at the corner of Avalon Place and Bayard Lane. At Council's August Meeting, Mayor Male and Council President Coyle, serving as chairman of the Committee on Princeton's Future, asked interested citizens and organizations to suggest how the two-story brick structure, built with Federal Funds in the 1930's, might best be used by, and for Princeton Community.

From the Joint Township-Borough Advisory Committee on Recreation has come the request that no decision be made on the building's future until the committee has an opportunity to file its recommendations with the governing body. To date, ideas have been set forth by both non-profit and profit-making organizations.

One of the eight opinions set forth below, the possibility of converting the building into a new public library, has been veined following searching study by the Library's Trustees and a special Library Advisory Committee, that included top-ranking librarians and representatives of Borough and Township.

HOTTEST POOL IN TOWN: The 87-foot high beehive-shaped dome above, an atomic reactor of the "swimming pool" variety, looms impressively as the latest major addition to the Princeton-area skyline. The heart of the pioneering Plainsboro unit known as Industrial Reactor Laboratories, Inc., the facility is the world's largest nuclear research center entirely owned and operated by private industry. (TOWN TOPICS Photo by Alan Richards)

Science In Princeton

ATOMIC REACTOR READY

September Dedication. A $4,500,000 joint venture by ten leading industrial companies attempting to find out what atomic energy can do for them, and for their customers, has brought to the Princeton Area the world's largest nuclear research facility entirely owned and operated by private industry. Industrial Reactor Laboratories, Inc., of Plainsboro, expects to let its swimming pool type reactor "go critical" sometime next month. With an operating license from the Atomic Energy Commission expected shortly, only the completion of the pre-critical testing remains before meaningful research can be initiated.

The reactor is housed in an 87-foot high dome constructed of 3 to 12-inch thick concrete and sheathed in a specially designed aluminum skin. It will in no way endanger the surrounding area; as one physicist put it, "the reactor is the safest place in the world to work."

Each of the participating companies has its own laboratory facilities at the site, as will Columbia University which was enlisted to provide the technical staff for the operation of the reactor. The individual laboratory facilities, together with general offices, special laboratories, library, lunch room, conference room, dark room, glass-blowing room, shops and other supporting facilities, are contained in the one-story building adjacent to the dome.

The "swimming pool" designation means the reactor is designed to produce its chain reaction under 30 feet of demineralized water, which consists the moderator, cooler, and shield. This variety of reactor is probably the most flexible and convenient, since no high protective shield must be drilled in order to get to the radioactive core. The unit does not make electricity; all the energy goes into heat.

A policy decision, accentuating the unique role of the Plainsboro reactor, is that no government-sponsored research will be undertaken by the participating companies. They have entered upon the venture strictly on their own to explore the industrial applications of atomic energy and, in so doing, have taken a giant stride forward in implementing President Eisenhower's "Atoms for Peace Program."

Dr. Merlin D. Peterson, the former Technical Division Director of the Oak Ridge National Laboratories (Tennessee), will serve as Laboratory Director for the following blue-chip companies: American Machine & Foundry Company, American Tobacco Company, Atlas Power Company, Continental Can Company, Corning Glass Works, National Distillers and Chemical Corporation, National Lead Company, Radio Corporation of America, Soco Mobil Oil Company, Inc., and the United States Rubber Company.

NO HANDS DRIVING

Developed by RCA, a kind of automatic pilot for automobiles, capable of following the road, avoiding stalled cars, and even passing, is being perfected for the Radio Corporation of America by Dr. Vladimir K. Zworykin of Princeton and his research team. RCA obtained a patent for this effortless driving formula last week.

Working models of the device have already been demonstrated for various highway agencies. A motorist equipped with such a system would simply let the pair of sensing devices on his car control the steering by following a cable set in the roadway.

The patent allows one provision for a switch which the driver may set at "off" if he wants to regain control of the car himself, "auto stop" if he wishes it to stop, and "auto pass" if he wants it to change lanes. Provisions for passing automatically, for transferring to a new route at a junction point and for signals to countermand the intention to pass when it would be dangerous to do so are also being developed.

Leslie E. Flory and Winthrop S. Pike assist Dr. Zworykin with the project. An honorary vice-president of RCA, Dr. Zworykin first earned wide recognition for his invention of the iconoscope, an early television camera tube.

3,000,000 LIVES SAVED

Medicine Advances. Dr. John Henderson, 1028 Princeton Pike, told the World Medical Association that medical science has saved three million lives in the United States in the last two decades. The Princeton-based physician delivered the keynote address before association's 12th General Assembly in Copenhagen, Denmark.

Dr. Henderson, medical director of Johnson and Johnson, pharmaceutical firm of New Brunswick, addressed 300 doctors representing 53 nations. "Revolutionary changes have taken place in the treatment of disease in the last 20 years,"

SPORTS In Princeton

(This is the second of two articles on Princeton High School's football prospects for the 1958 season.)

Fast, Balanced Backfield. It is the firm conviction of the football coaching staff at Princeton High School — with the '58 campaign's opening kickoff just five weeks away — that the strength of the Little Tigers this fall will come primarily from the team's backfield. With speed, experience and unusual depth, PHS should run into attack trouble only if a smooth-functioning line cannot be developed from fairly "green" material in time to lead the offense.

The "key" position in Coach Joe Jingo's single wing program is tailback, or No. 4 back, and there the Blue and White will be "loaded." Both Co-Captain Julius (Butch) Cross and fellow senior Edgar Riddick earned letters last season and, while they are not consistently good performers then, they should form a fine combination this year. Cross, the club's top passer, will get the nod on offense and will lead the extra point kicking, while Riddick, a stout defensive player, probably will be at safety — and will see enough offensive duty to handle most of the punting.

The third letter-winning returner in the backfield is Junior Jack Hawkins, a hard-hitting, 182-pound operator who will open at wingback but also will be available for extensive fullback chores. Seniors Dan Sullivan and Bob Cooper will be the likely starters at quarter and full, respectively, the former being a straight-A student who aids his club by knowing everyone else's assignment in addition to his own, the latter being a 160-pound line-hucker who puts his head down, moves forward with authority and is almost always good for those vital "two yards" through the middle.

Junior Bruce Sandvick is a safe bet to be at tailback behind Cross and Riddick, with Junior Jack Copeland slated to serve as Sullivan's immediate understudy at the signal-calling spot. No. 1 back will find senior Doug (Motorcycle) Hayes and Junior Barry Devall stepping in. While Junior Alex Nelson probably will perform behind Cooper and Hawkins at fullback.

What Strength Between Ends? According to Jingo's best preseason estimates, his '58 varsity PHS CO-CAPTAINS: Seniors Tony Boccanfuso (front) and Julius (Butch) Cross will serve as co-captains of Princeton High's varsity football team in '58, hoping to guide a squad of 60 candidates through a triumphant eight-games schedule. Boccanfuso will play left end, Cross will start at tailback.

will boast strength at the ends, but will be a dubious quality—untested in actual games—between the flanks. Co-Captain Tony Boccanfuso, though only 150 pounds and a 200-pounder, should provide adequate beef and stature at left end, with senior Ed Toussaint and Junior Bill Lindsey each in the roles of worthy substitutes for the two front-liners.

Aide from Boccanfuso, senior

Dates To Remember

Candidates for Princeton High's varsity football squad will report to the school for physical examinations at 8:30 a.m. September 2, the morning following Labor Day. Uniforms will be distributed and one workout will be held the same day, with two-a-day drills slated until the start of classes September 8. A pre-season scrimmage with New Brunswick High will be conducted here September 23, and, if it can be arranged, a similar session with Lambertville High will be held September 20. The Little Tigers will open their regular campaign September 27 in Mount Holly and, in ensuing weeks, will play Saturday afternoon home games against Leonardo and Ewing, when Princeton University is playing away October 11 and November 15.

Dick McCluskey, a tough, 240-pound right guard, is the sole '57 letter-earner who will be back to bolster the '58 forward wall. McCluskey should have no trouble holding his own in the thick of battle, both offensive and defensive, but will he be able to make up for other line deficiencies? He cannot, for example, do much about plugging the left tackle gap, which is wide open with the unanticipated transfer of Tim Connor.

fer, Jingo conceded that senior Bill Weisenburger, a scrappy 170-pounder, could generate just the needed spark at center to give the middle of the line — along with McCluskey — some real fire. Also, the head coach will look for juniors Ken Marple and Dave Wright, at 170 each, to progress rapidly at right tackle and left guard, respectively.

Boccanfuso, Applegate, McCluskey and Weisenburger will no doubt be asked to go both ways. In view of the Little Tigers' dangerous lack of experience up front, but the rest of the defensive set-up will remain unknown until mid-September. Juniors Bill Young, a candidate for center, and Dave McKee, a tackle hopeful, will afford important reserve strength if they begin to realize their potential this fall. Cooper and Hawkins probably will serve as linebackers.

Veteran Coaching Staff. Despite his obvious line problems, Jingo will benefit from the help of a veteran, enthusiastic coaching staff — which could well bring along PHS' problem players in time for successful defense of the Mercer County grid title. The coaches have been working together for a long while, meaning that each knows exactly what the other is accomplishing and none is liable to waste precious practice moments.

Dick Wood, who enters his 13th year with Jingo (also starting his 13th), will again supervise the offensive line, while Gerry Granger, commencing his seventh season with the Little Tigers, will be in charge of the en-

PRINCETON HITS JACKPOT

Dominates NFS Grants. Nearly 75 cents out of every dollar granted to New Jersey scientists and institutions by the National Science Foundation will aid 1958-59 projects in the Princeton area. Of the $450,280 earmarked for New Jersey, $365,950 was set aside for Princeton undertakings. The big slice of the recently announced Princeton awards, a grant of $285,000, went to Dr. Martin Schwarzschild, of Princeton University's Department of Astronomy, for high-altitude research. Dr. Schwarzschild is currently directing "Project Stratoscope" for the Office of Naval Research in all-out efforts to obtain photographs of the sun far sharper than any previously recorded by the earth's most powerful telescopes.

In the test flights, the German-born Schwarzschild and his colleagues used unmanned polyethylene balloons which carry powerful 12-inch astronomical telescopes equipped with 35-mm. motion picture cameras to heights of 80,000-plus feet over Minnesota. The resulting photographic information, three times clearer than any existing sunphotos, provides a better understanding of the true activity on the sun and its effect on our own atmosphere.

Other University grants include: $7,500 to Dr. Clark E. Bricker for the recently completed Summer Institute in Chemistry; $17,000 to Dr. Charles E. Smyth, newly designated Jones Professor of Chemistry, for research in rotational isomerism and intramolecular motion; and $8,900 to Dr. Lionell I. Rebhun, of the Department of Biology, for study with marine invertebrate eggs.

Henry Chauncey, President of the Educational Testing Service, received $45,550 for the project entitled "Horizons of Science," and H. Hart S. Bailey, Jr., director of the Princeton University Press, $2,600, for translation of the Russian book, "The Problem of Stability of Nonlinear Control Systems."

tire defensive alignment. Tony Borzok, on hand since 1953, will handle the PHS freshmen squad and George Fovialis, a 1955 acquisition, will help with the varsity ends and the freshman and will coach the junior varsity. Jingo will develop the varsity backfield.

Considering the moulding challenges facing the PHS coaches, the attractive '58 schedule will be upon them very soon — and the opening games will be difficult. Mount Holly, for instance, posted a 4-3 record a year ago, has more than Princeton's total of five letter-winners coming back and will be anxious to launch its new series with the Little Tigers by grabbing a home victory September 27. Then, PHS will meet Freehold, continue practice for a year, and Leonardo, undefeated in '57, on consecutive week ends. Defense of the Mercer crown will begin October 17 against Trenton High here.

Jingol said honestly this week—viewing the eight-game card ahead—that he doesn't know "who we can beat." Other observers of PHS football admitted they aren't sure, either, but many are willing to wager that Jingol & Co. will win its share, maybe even bettering last season's fine 5-2 mark.

COUNTY GOLF CLINIC

Ferrara in Charge. Residents of the Princeton area are reminded that sessions of the first golf clinic to be conducted on the newly established County Public Golf Course—known as the Mountain View Golf Club—will be concluded this Thursday and Friday evenings. Under the direction of Lawrence (Skip) Ferrara, club pro, the instruction periods have been held from 6 to 7 each night since Monday.

For those who want to take advantage of the final sessions, the fundamentals of golf are being stressed—including the names of the various items utilized in golf play, the etiquette and rules of golf, the stance, the basics of the golf swing, the proper grip, the chip shot, the short, medium and long iron shots, the wood shot, playing the traps, putting techniques and scoring.

Instructions at the clinic are progressive, moving from one element of the game to another, with an opportunity for all persons attending the sessions to practice the rudiments of the sport without charge.

Courageous Citizen
To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

On Monday afternoon, August 11, 1958, Ray Hughes—operating as Ray's Appliance, 243 Nassau Street—was convicted in Borough Court of misapplication of funds given to him as a deposit on an air conditioner.

My complaints about this gentleman had been received by the Borough Police and by the Princeton Business Association. None of the complaints would sign a change in writing, so, for weeks, nothing could be done to investigate the charges.

Monday morning, August 11, with the cooperation of the Princeton Business Association, Mrs. Edward Lyden of 409-A Butler Avenue signed a complaint against Mr. Hughes for a deposit that was never returned and an air conditioner that was never delivered. Mrs. Lyden has not gotten back her deposit as yet, but her courageous action put a stop to something that many others who were treated similarly would not admit. The conviction of Mr. Hughes was possible only because Mrs. Lyden had taken the precaution to get a purchase order signed by Mr. Hughes and because she had a receipt for a registered letter she sent him.

May I suggest that, if you are in doubt about a business transaction involving a Princeton merchant, that you contact the PBA at 134 Nassau Street, or telephone WA 4-3912, between 3:30 and 5:30 Monday through Friday.

Fair Play Questioned

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:
Since you sent an editorial writer rather than a reporter to the Princeton Township Committee meeting on August 11, 1958, your readers might want to know what occurred during the public hearing regarding Valley Road sidewalks. There were ten owners of property abutting Valley Road at the hearing, all of them opposed to the sidewalk ordinance. While your editorial writer was obviously insensitive, Mayor Hurford announced there were no requests from any property owners along Valley Road to install sidewalks. The "nine or ten" from the same street (who) were on hand to endorse the Committee's action. . . . are figments of your editorial writer's imagination.

I feel come to expect a certain amount of fair play from the Township Committee. Because of the Committee's decision to run sidewalks down Valley Road regardless of the desires or rights of the residents, I came to expect. That I am an indefatigable critic of injustice, I readily admit. In my estimation, it certainly is not fair to notify property-owners through an advertisement in a local newspaper on a Thursday early in August, when many of them are on vacation, to come to a meeting on Monday night if they object to being taxed $300 or $400 for something they do not want. This action concerning Snowden Lane, Western Way, Edgerstown, or hunting control, is not considered, publicly, at the time allowed for notice and hearings. In fact, public meetings exist to give the formal introduction of an ordinance. When the question involves Valley Road, speed is of the essence. The way the Valley Road ordinance was rushed through may not be illegal, but it is certainly immoral.

Questions regarding the reason Valley Road was picked as against Rollingmead and Magnolia Lane, either one suggested by the Planning Board for sidewalks, were never answered. Since the Committee decided on sidewalks for 4000 feet of Valley Road and pointedly omitted sidewalks for 2500 feet of Valley Road, the issue is one of discrimination. In all fairness this ordinance requires a great deal more study than has been given to it.

Henry J. Frank
273 Jefferson Road

(Ed. note: Apparently, TOWN TOPICS' writer and Mr. Frank figured these premises were on opposite sides of the sidewalk issue, though, by actual count of the Township Clerk, only three persons voiced opposition to the ordinance. That no more showed up to comment on the ordinance and Mr. Frank had appeared at the Committee's June meeting, primarily to urge delay of any action pending Legislative Bill A-39. The Bill—enabling the Committee to share sidewalk costs—was passed July 30, and the Committee then moved with legitimate speed so work might be started before school re-opens. Valley Road property owner received direct, ample notice of the August session before it was held, but the turnout was meagre—no doubt due to the Committee's cooperation via Bill A-39).

Re: "Playcane Hindrances"

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:
I read in TOWN TOPICS recently that the Township Committee had "placed in the reserved decision board" a request by A. R. Silvester that he be allowed to establish a minor subdivision between State and Mt. Lucas Roads—a request the Planning Board turned down because Mr. Silvester could show no road frontage on any existing street and because adjoining property owners were not notified of his proposal.

It seems to me that this situation needs a little clarification, not because it affects my brother, but because it involves basic and fundamental principles of property ownership, individual rights and constitutional guarantees.

The lot in question has never had road frontage since it was sold as part of the subdivision of the Princeton College woodland in the latter part of the Eightteenth Century. A house built on this property about that time was served for the 75 years or more by a lane to Mt. Lucas Road.

Some years before the ordinance affecting road frontage was enacted, my brother placed a house on the property, which he rented since he was not the original owner. For personal reasons, he now wishes to sell it, together with what acreage the buyer wishes. He has had many prospective buyers, none of whom wished public road frontage. The zoning ordinance would allow dividing the property, even though the proposed lots are larger than the zoning ordinance calls for, based on lack of road frontage. Many people prefer to live off the beaten track and the present shady lane offers adequate access. Construction of a wide, surfaced highway to the property, as required, would not only entail prohibitive expense but would make it a less desirable residential site.

Such decisions of the Planning Board force the holding of higher taxed land that brings in no income and can neither be sold nor put to any use. Technically, this may not be confiscation, but, in effect, it is more pernicious. It makes the owner continue to pay in high taxes, for what he is allowed neither to sell nor make proper use of it. It is scarcely conceivable that higher county taxes sustain making a municipal ordinance retroactive, as the decision of the Planning Board does in this case. However, the Planning Board can afford to rest on the fact that any individual would hesitate to undertake the long and costly litigation involved in court action.

As one views the development of Princeton Township over the past few decades, it seems evident that all the major improvements, such as the Shopping Center, the several beautiful residential areas, Research Park, the donation and setting aside of lands for several public parks, etc., have been initiated and carried through by private individuals, more often than not hampered by citycane hindrances and annoyances imposed on the name of planning.

Zoning, if not carried too far, seems necessary, but it is time to ask seriously if all the so-called planning is worth continuing the present trend of reducing the great body of responsible citizenry to the position of errant children who must be kept under their own intelligence but must go to a bureaucratic and paternal governing body to seek permission to do anything.

Retrial Demanded

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:
There must be hundreds, if not thousands, of Princetonians who are ashamed and enraged by the court's decision on the DeSandro case.

It would seem to me that the case has been disgracefully mishandled. This has been established where this boy was and what he was doing during the early part of the evening of June 14th? It may have some bearing on the case.

IF YOU LIKE TOWN TOPICS, the best way to show your appreciation is to send us your advertisement to our advertising office.

Your paper stated in covering the accident that this boy's license had been revoked once before, but it did not give the reason. Surely, the small fine and a year without a license is a very mild punishment for one so devoid of the laws of our land.

What kind of courts and lawyers have we when wrongdoers are not properly punished? No wonder evildoing is reaching such proportions.

The people of this area should demand that this case be retried.

BEANIE KRAUS JR.

Princeton A.C. Manager

Perhaps it's a good thing that Leonard (Beanie) Kraus Jr. is a Household Finance trainee, for he understood full well the value of a "loan-out" when the Princeton Athletic Club asked him to serve as its baseball manager this summer. Kraus loaned himself out, guided the Princeton entry to the Tri-County League flag (12-2 record, three games out in front) and, as TOWN TOPICS went to press, was trying to capture the '58 playoffs.

Though he hasn't been in Princeton for much of this decade, Kraus was a sound managerial choice on his return to his hometown. He played three years of good varsity ball for Princeton High (from which he graduated in 1950), went on for a year at "Pieddie," then completed as a member of Colgate's varsity for four seasons. After capturing the Red Raiders in 1955, he entered the Navy and played service ball for two campaigns.

A versatile infielder and steady hitter, Kraus picked up the nickname "Beanie" from his father, not because he threw brenballs from the mound. Leonard Sr., a well-known Princetonian and an able baseball performer in his own right, acquired the moniker many years back, but he doesn't know why—or, at least, he won't tell.

Asked about the current PAC squad, which started off well but bogged down a bit in the stretch, Mgr. Kraus said, "The potential is there, but We couldn't practice enough to get really sharp, and, with so many young players, lots of mental mistakes were made. I will say, though, that they did their very best all the way."

Kraus, who has participated in a half-dozen Tri-County contests himself and has done well for a Housenew team in a Huntington County loop on Sunday, observed that "I'm far from sharp myself. In order to produce at anything, you've got to do it every day." The rough- and - tumble manager may be right about untapped potential and unattained sharpness, but, fortunately for the PAC, he and his charges "produced" often enough to graduate a pennant with comparative ease.

petitors as he called an excellent game, in the opinion of both teams.

Fourth-ranked Montgomery ousted second-place South Brunswick from the playoffs this past week by edging the favorite team, 2-1. Rain caused postponement of local games between the PAC and third-place Sonnypine, so the final playoff round cannot commence until this week—instead of this week, as originally scheduled.

PSCL PLAYOFFS BEGUN

Cenerino's favored. Of its spectacular play in the last game of the regular season and the game of the annual playoffs, Cenerino's A.C.—the loop's top team—is picked to cop the '58 playoffs crown in the Princeton Community Softball League. Sannino's, No. 1 most of the campaign, but only runner-up in the final standings, is expected to reach the final playoffs with its arch-rival.

Cenerino's will play the second contest of its playoffs match with the fourth-place Sportsmen at 6:15 p.m. this Thursday at Marquand Park and, if a third game is necessary, will play that one Friday evening. Sannino's will meet third-place Nassau Social Club at the same hour the same evenings at Goldie Field.

In the playoffs' opening action Tuesday, Cenerino's blanked the Sportsmen, 2-0, behind the hit hurling of Everett (Duke)

James, losing pitcher Harry Kahny allowed only five safeties. Meanwhile, Sannino's edged NSC, 4-3, in an exciting mound duel involving the winning club's Lou Dileglio and the losers' Huck McCredy.

To nail down first place in the pennant scrap, Cenerino's white-washed Sannino's last Sunday, 1-0. Mack Brockington, who hit 14 and limiting Sannino's to four hits, pitched the clutch victory for Cenerino's and Jim Carter delivered the key blow with two men in the sixth inning. Dileglio tossed a five-hitter in defeat.

ALL-STAR GAME SET

Now Slated for Monday. Weather permitting, the Princeton Junior Baseball League will stage its annual All-Star game at 15 next Monday at Princeton High School. Rained-out contests and an extremely close flag race caused postponement of the All-Star event this week.

At next Monday's affair, an RCA-donated trophy will be presented to the loop's No. 1 team, which could not be determined for certain as TOWN TOPICS' sports section went to press. Matthews Construction and Nassau Oil remained in contention following latest developments.

For the first time in three years, favored Nassau Oil dropped two games in a week—verdicts of 11-3 to the last-place PBA-ated Police nine and 2-1 to the Bowers. The Police entry also lost an 8-3 encounter with Matthews to conclude its regular season and stay out of the closest pennant scrap in the league's history.

Matthews in last place several weeks ago, scored into first place Tuesday after stunning Bowers 7-4 and 6-4, in a pair of make-up tilts.

The Junior standings as of Tuesday:

	W	L	T	Play
Matthews	7	4	0	1
Nassau Oil	6	4	0	2
Bowers	4	6	1	1
Police	4	7	1	0

'Y' SPLASH PARTIES

Open House Planned. A series of four splash parties for girls in the sixth through ninth grades highlighted the TWCA summer program during the past two weeks. Mrs. Raymond F. Male, newly-appointed chairman of the TWCA's teen-age program committee, and Mrs. John Justice directed the get-togethers.

All girls of the Princeton area will have the opportunity to register for the fall program series of open-house gatherings scheduled for the new building on Avalon Place after the middle of September. The program will include clubs for girls in the sixth through ninth grades as well as a service group for older high school girls.

FOR THE PAST FIVE YEARS, Town Topics has carried more classified advertisements than any other Princeton papers combined.

METHODIST CHURCH WING UNDER CONSTRUCTION: Work is well underway this week on the new $100,000 wing at the Methodist Church, which is expanding to accommodate additional Sunday school classes. Located at Nassau Street and Vandewater Avenue for more than 100 years, the church is developing an 18-foot driveway at the rear of its lot to link Vandewater with a 30-car "interior block" Borough parking yard of the future. The builder is Bowers Construction Co. (Photo by H. Chazowski)

TRAFFIC DEATHS DROP

Mercer Sets Pace. Statistics released this week by New Jersey Attorney General David D. Furman revealed that traffic deaths in Mercer County are decreasing at a much faster rate than they are on a statewide basis.

To date, 13 automobile fatalities have been registered in Mercer County for 1958 as compared to the total of 23 this time last year.
The decrease of 43 per cent stands far above the statewide drop of approximately 12 per cent. The 1958 New Jersey total is 432, 71 less than the 506 dead at the same time last year.

RED CROSS YOUTH TO MEET

Princeton Sends Five. Some 160 outstanding secondary school leaders representing Junior Red Cross Chapters throughout the state will gather at the Peddie School Sunday for a vigorous six-day session at New Jersey's pioneering Junior Red Cross Leadership Training Center. The New Jersey program is believed to be the first of its kind in the country.

Through the Training Center,
the Red Cross is striving to awaken in young people the desire to find a solution to their own problems and those of their fellow men. The delegates attending the Center will be expected to return to their local chapters next fall, equipped to supervise and encourage the numerous JRC projects.

For the second straight year,
the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross under the direction of Mrs. Mary Sage will sponsor the program. Although the local unit's main responsibility lies in the realm of a liaison with the Peddie School business office, Mrs. Sage and others have been ironing out the kinks in the center agenda for the past year.

The 110 girls and 48 boys undergoing the leadership exercises were elected by their respective chapters, and, in addition, had to receive the approval of their principals, faculty advisors, and Red Cross sponsors. Princeton High School delegates also had to rate a place on the Dean's List.

Those attending from Princeton are James Keels, Donna
Quigley, Anna Flahane, Sharon
Mather, and Patricia Lyon.
Hightstown high will send Jean Holtz and Marcia Pogrebin.
A 26-man staff, composed of highly trained professionals, will take charge of the training exercises. Dr. Peter Crainin of the University of Maryland, a researcher with Merck Laboratories and a former director of Junior Red Cross in Bulgaria will head the faculty, which also includes Mrs. T. Morgan Harris of the Witherspoon

School, returning for her third year.

An indication of the wide variety of service projects undertaken by Junior Red Cross members can be gained by focusing monomentarily on the FHS chapter.
Over the past year the local unit has upon request arranged monthly birthday parties for children at the Neuro-Psychiatric Institute, prepared favors for patients at Princeton Hospital, exchanged correspondence albums with Junior Red Cross organizations abroad, and undergone an extensive health and safety program.

For the duration of the Training Center daily orientation sessions concerning such areas as "leadership," "community service," and "international activities" are planned. A broad schedule of extra-curricular activities such as square dancing, arts and crafts, a talent show, and a "waterana" will be offered to break up the grind.

TOWNSHIP COURT

Hicks President. William A.
Thompson, 45, R.D. 1, was the home local resident found guilty of a traffic violation in Township Court this week. Mr. Thompson paid a $20 assessment for careless driving. Magistrate A. C.
Reeves Hicks of West Windsor Township, currently replacing vacating Louis Gerber, imposed the penalty.

HOPEWELL ALUMNI TO MEET

Sixth Reunion Set. A tour of the new $1,600,000 Hopewell Township high school building will highlight the sixth annual reunion of the HTS alumni association scheduled for Saturday, October 18, at 8 p. m. Also on the program are a brief business meeting, class get-togethers, and dancing. Alumni president Eric W. Turner has announced.

INFLATION HITS U. S. HOUSING

America's logging housing industry may have to increase their prices due to the new spiral in costs of material and labor. The nation's ten ranking builders claim that their policy of maintaining stable prices in the moderate price fields is no longer expedient with ever increasing costs of production.

Prices are due for a boost in the early fall when the market for homes is expected to show signs of new life. Building in the highly industrialized Delaware Valley is almost certain to rise in volume of sales... and price.

Builders have made every endeavor to try to maintain prices in the face of rising costs. Profits per unit were lower in 1957 than any year since the war.
